

Dr Pardeep Jhund

Dr Pardeep Jhund is a Clinical Senior Lecturer at the University of Glasgow and Honorary Consultant Cardiologist at the Queen Elizabeth University Hospital with a sub-specialty interest in heart failure.

Dr Jhund was trained in medicine at the University of Glasgow, gained a MSc in Epidemiology from the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, and PhD in cardiovascular epidemiology at the University of Glasgow under the supervision of Prof John McMurray, and post-doctoral fellowship at The Brigham and Women's Hospital (BWH) and Harvard Medical School in Boston, USA under the supervision of Dr Scott Solomon and Dr Marc Pfeffer.

He has been involved in a number of multinational randomised trials as an investigator and as a member of clinical endpoint committees