Carving of Rangi & Papa

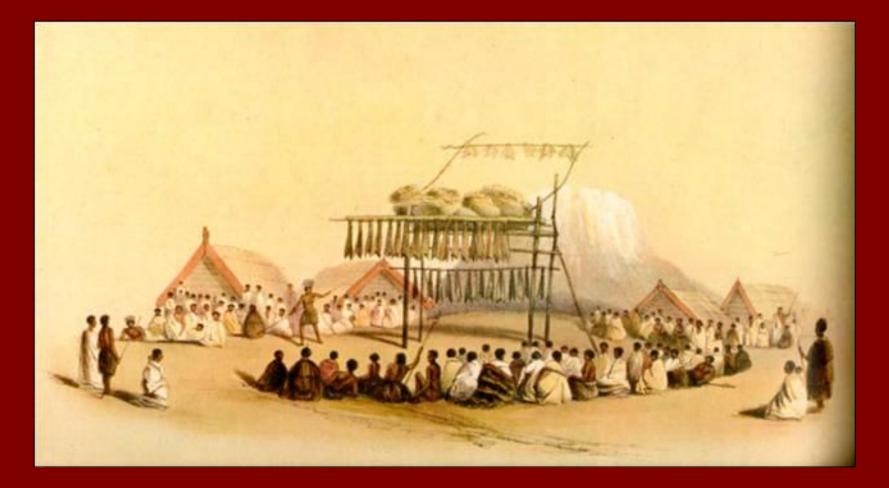

Earth mother, Sky father

From nothingness (te Kore) was generated Unpossessed nothingness, Unbound nothingness The wind of growth, the wind of life (ko hau tupu, ko hau ora) Stayed in clear space And the atmosphere emerged The sky (te rangi) which floats Above the Earth (te whenua).

The Great Chain of Being [A.O. Lovejoy The Great Chain of Being: History of an Idea]

The Four Capitals

Intergenerational wellbeing relies on the growth, distribution, and sustainability of the Four Capitals. The Capitals are interdependent and work together to support wellbeing.

This refers to all aspects of the natural environment needed to support life and human activity. It includes land, soil, water, plants and animals, as well as minerals and energy resources.

This describes the norms and values that underpin society. It includes things like trust, the rule of law, the Crown-Māori relationship, cultural identity, and the connections between people and communities.

This encompasses people's skills, knowledge and physical and mental health. These are the things which enable people to participate fully in work, study, recreation and in society more broadly.

This includes things like houses, roads, buildings, hospitals, factories, equipment and investments. These are the things which make up the country's physical and financial assets which have a direct role in supporting incomes and material living conditions.

The Four Capitals

Intergenerational wellbeing relies on the growth, distribution, and sustainability of the Four Capitals. The Capitals are interdependent and work together to support wellbeing. The Crown-Maori relationship is integral to all four capitals. The LSF is being continually developed and the next iteration of the framework will consider the role of culture, including Maori culture, as part of the capitals approach in more detail.
