

5th Pacific Ocean Pacific Climate Change Conference

Amplifying One Pacific Voice for Action on 1.5 °C to Stay Alive

14-18 September 2026
Solomon Islands National University (SINU)

The Solomon Islands National University (SINU), National University of Samoa (NUS), the Pacific Climate Change Centre at the Secretariat of the Pacific Environment Programme (SPREP) and Te Herenga Waka—Victoria University of Wellington (VUW) are proud to be hosting the 5th POPCCC in Honiara, Apia. The Conference will bring together Government officials and policymakers, climate scientists and researchers, environmental, human rights and faith-based organisations, Indigenous and local community leaders, non-governmental organisations, business and industry representatives, international institutions and development agencies, students and academics from the Pacific region and around the world. The theme of this fourth conference is highly relevant because Pacific nations are particularly vulnerable to the impacts of climate change, including rising sea levels, extreme weather events, and the loss of biodiversity. At the same time, new initiatives, such as Vanuatu's campaign for an advisory opinion of the International Court of Justice on climate change, advances in relation to loss and damage through the creation of a Fund adopted at COP27 and increasing efforts to protect maritime zones and to develop programmes on climate mobility highlight the importance of cooperation in addressing climate issues.

Alongside keynote plenary events led by world-renowned experts, parallel sessions will enable established and emerging scholars, government advisers and practitioners, representatives of the private sector and community groups, to present their work and to meet and engage with speakers and participants. Some of the parallel sessions will be grouped in streams running throughout the day, allowing them to convene and reflect on the theme of the conference within their particular area of specialisation.
